

ALL FOR MR. FALLASS

The Republican Attorneys of Grand Rapids

BESPEAK HIS GREAT FITNESS

He is Splendidly Qualified to Discharge the Duties of Superior Court Judge—His Indorsement.

That the nomination of Henry R. Fallass to be judge of the superior court is eminently satisfactory to the republican lawyers of this city is abundantly proved by their unanimous indorsement of him. Herewith THE HERALD presents a series of interviews with well known lawyers of the city. No candidate for office could reasonably expect a more splendid indorsement.

He Will Be a Judge.

Judge Montgomery—I think the convention honored itself by placing Mr. Fallass in nomination. I have known him as a lawyer for fourteen years and believe he would make an excellent judge. He is a conscientious, painstaking and industrious student; he is possessed of a keen, analytical mind and an uncompromising sense of justice; his work evidences that his legal education has been thorough and that he has kept abreast of the times.

W. J. Stuart—Mr. Fallass is a good lawyer, a great student, a well educated, upright, honest man, and if elected I believe would make an excellent judge.

Edward Tappert—I have been acquainted with Henry R. Fallass for more than twenty years. He is honest, capable and industrious, and if elected will honor the office. While he is a man of decided opinions and fearless in expressing them, his respect for law and legal rights will control and direct his judgment. He will not assume the part of the legislator as he is too often done.

No Sympathy for the Vicious.

A. C. Davidson—I am very much pleased with the nomination of Mr. Fallass. No one will question his superior legal qualifications for the place, and as a judge he would have the absolute and perfect confidence of every lawyer. They would know that his judicial actions were influenced by a desire to administer the law as it exists, without any regard for any other consideration.

L. E. Knappen—Mr. Fallass is a gentleman of scholarly habits and an excellent and mature lawyer. He is not only of irreproachable character but is fearless and outspoken on public and moral questions. He has no sympathy with the vicious and disorderly elements of society. He is prompt and energetic, and while courteous in bearing, possesses firmness and decision. To my mind he would make a admirable judge of the superior court.

M. C. Church—I don't know Mr. Fallass very well. About the middle of the '90s he had offices side by side, and used the same phone for two or three years—over the National City bank. He was always a good and reliable neighbor, a warm and earnest friend, a perfect gentleman, dignified and manly in his bearing and considerate in his actions. Moreover, I think he was one of the most studious, scholarly and painstaking lawyers I ever met. I ought to add that he is a fine business man, and that should cut a good deal of a figure in a judge, and particularly in that court where matters pertaining to city real estate are constantly under consideration.

A Leading Lawyer.

William R. Perkins. The selection of Henry R. Fallass as a candidate for superior court judge was one of the very best the convention could have made. We want just such men in office—men whose time and energies will be devoted to business, rather than affectation and display. Mr. Fallass is recognized as one of the leading lawyers of western Michigan. His ability and fitness for the position cannot be questioned. His character as a man and a citizen is above reproach. He is broad minded, firm, intelligent, careful and honest, and will make an ideal judge.

Arthur H. Root—I think the nomination of Mr. Fallass an excellent one. He is a good lawyer and a clean man. He would make a fair, impartial and righteous judge, and should be elected.

William Aldrich Tatem—The nomination of Mr. Fallass excites me greatly. I stand with him as a lawyer and a man. He would be a splendid judge. He would be the best looking judge in the city, not including the circuit court commissioner.

A High-minded Man.

John W. Holcomb—I favored a more intimate, personal and political friend than Mr. Fallass for the superior court judgeship. Being disappointed, I felt sure he would not be elected. He is a man of high character, and his nomination is a credit to the convention.

A High-minded Man.

John W. Holcomb—I favored a more intimate, personal and political friend than Mr. Fallass for the superior court judgeship. Being disappointed, I felt sure he would not be elected. He is a man of high character, and his nomination is a credit to the convention.

A High-minded Man.

John W. Holcomb—I favored a more intimate, personal and political friend than Mr. Fallass for the superior court judgeship. Being disappointed, I felt sure he would not be elected. He is a man of high character, and his nomination is a credit to the convention.

double high-minded gentleman, with a courtesy of manner and consistency in his judicial action that will, I believe, inspire respect and confidence with every class of law-abiding citizens.

James Buchanan—I think it a good nomination, and if he is elected he will make a good judge.

Judge Perkins—I know Henry R. Fallass well. I have been intimately acquainted with him for twenty years, and I know him but to praise. He is a positive man of deep and abiding convictions. He stands four square to every wind that blows. You know just where to find him and every word he says can be relied upon implicitly. He is a good lawyer, careful, painstaking and thorough. He is well read in the law and of good judgment in his application of it. His sound sense and his great sincerity fit him eminently for judicial work. He would decide cases upon their merits without any thought of the effect upon the general public and with no attempt to gain personal advantage by any pious for effect. The right of the matter once settled, the decision would be in accordance with it. As the candidate of the republican party he is worthy of the support of every voter and if elected I believe no good citizen will ever find occasion to regret it.

Positive and Sincere.

George Clapperton—The convention did itself proud by the nomination of Mr. Fallass. I think no better man could be selected from the bar of this city for judge of the superior court and his election would be for the public good. Mr. Fallass is a good lawyer and an honest man; a man of wide experience, sound judgment and fine personal appearance. He is positive and sincere in his convictions of right and duty, but not narrow and bigoted, and would make a just and righteous judge. If elected there would be no doubt as to the enforcement of strict obedience to the laws in his court, but his keen sense of right and justice, and his warm sympathy, would prevent harsh or unfair exercise of judicial power, and would constrain him to "temper justice with mercy." He would be a dignified, upright and practical judge, in whom all the people would have implicit confidence.

T. J. O'Brien—Mr. Fallass' nomination is an excellent one. He is a capable man and will make an efficient judge.

J. H. Campbell—The selection is a good one. Mr. Fallass is a man of high character. He would fill the office with ability.

Harry D. Jewell—I had occasion to call at Mr. Fallass' office on business some time ago—before I located in Grand Rapids. Although it was the first time I had ever seen him, a few minutes' conversation left the impression with me that he was a lawyer of more than ordinary ability, and his whole manner pleased me. A subsequent personal acquaintance has but served to confirm and strengthen my first impression. He has not only the legal capacity, but the pleasant disposition, the even temperament, the dignified bearing, and withal the reserve force of character so necessary in one holding such a position.

A Careful Student.

Willard F. Keeney—It is an excellent nomination. Mr. Fallass is well known to residents of Grand Rapids, both as a lawyer and public spirited citizen, and his record is conceded to be beyond reproach. If elected, he will give satisfaction alike to the bar and the people.

Charles E. Ward—The nomination of Mr. Fallass for superior court judge meets with my hearty approval. He is a man of sound judgment and even temper, his official conduct may be depended upon to be uniform and honest. Few men would, in a greater degree, inspire confidence in the integrity and ability of that court.

Robert W. Butterfield—I have known Mr. Fallass for many years as an upright, gentlemanly, conscientious lawyer and a careful student. I think his nomination a good one and that if elected he will make an excellent judge.

C. V. C. Ganson—The nomination of H. R. Fallass for the office of judge of the superior court I consider an excellent one. His name adds strength to an already strong ticket.

F. G. Holmes—I know H. R. Fallass to be a good lawyer and in my judgment would make a good judge.

A Good, Clean Man.

E. D. Barry of Fitz Gerald & Barry—He's a good, clean man.

L. W. Wolcott—Mr. Fallass is a good lawyer and a man of sterling principles. He has the respect and confidence of the bar and he well deserves their good opinion. I think he will make a good judge.

Charles Chandler—I think the nomination of Mr. Fallass for judge of superior court an excellent one, and if elected he will make a splendid record.

H. E. & E. L. Walbridge. We regard the nomination of H. R. Fallass as a very fortunate one. He is certainly possessed of a judicial mind, legal attainments and a dignified manner that will make him a popular and efficient judge.

His Election Will Be a Credit.

G. P. Warty—I in my opinion Henry R. Fallass will make a superior candidate for superior court judge, as no republican could feel justified in voting for any other candidate with him on our ticket. Every citizen who desires an able lawyer and conscientious judge on the bench cannot do better than to vote for him, and if he is elected we will be proud to have been able to secure such high ability in so important a place.

B. M. Cuthbert—While I am a recent comer in the bar of this city, I do not hesitate to say that I consider the nomination an excellent one, and one that evinces citizen support with the assurance that if an candidate is elected the superior court would be conducted with dignity, integrity and learning.

William Aldrich Smith—For many years Mr. Fallass' office advised my own. I became intimately and well acquainted with him as a lawyer and his high character as a man. He is worthy of the entire confidence of the people of this city, and his election will reflect credit upon them. I think that he possesses the judicial temperament, and is well adapted to the duties of that office.

For Law and Order.

W. D. Fuller—By the nomination of Mr. Fallass the republicans have effectively answered any claim that might otherwise have been made that in case of excesses the violators of law and order will be the gainers, and at the same time have appealed most strongly to the law and order voters of the city, regardless of party affiliations, for their support.

The high personal character, and unquestionable legal ability of Mr. Fallass cannot be questioned, and the decent element in all parties is to be congratulated upon the fact that neither the republican or democrat party has pondered to the liquor and law defying minority for votes.

Fred W. Stevens—There is no good reason why Mr. Fallass should not receive every republican vote in the city. He has practiced law in this city a great many years, is thoroughly versed in the law, and is unquestionably honorable in all his dealings. I feel certain that he will make as good a judge as we ever had in the county.

Claude R. Buchanan—The convention has made an excellent choice in nominating Mr. Fallass. He has extended experience, good ability and is in his prime. I believe that he would make an excellent judge.

Strengthens the Ticket.

Ralph Stone—The nomination of Mr. Fallass contributed greatly to strengthen the ticket. The convention acted wisely when it forced Mr. Stuart to head the ticket, and it gave further evidence of good sense when it added the name of Mr. Fallass. Mr. Stuart enters upon the campaign under obligations to no one. Mr. Fallass does the same, and that is the most favorable thing that can be said of a candidate for any judicial position. The best and safest judge is he who owes his nomination and election to no clique or class, but who is indorsed by the better elements in the community.

Henry F. Welch—Mr. Fallass will make an excellent judge. He is well qualified for the position, and his strength as a candidate seems to be increasing. The wisdom of his selection by the convention is conceded by many who were at first inclined to doubt. No fault can be found with him as a man; neither can his opponents be said to possess any qualifications which he does not. In addition to being a good lawyer, he is honest, upright and industrious, and should receive the hearty support of every person interested in good government and the proper enforcement of the law. He certainly can be relied upon to "make the punishment fit the crime."

M. J. Smiley—Mr. Fallass is an experienced lawyer, and would make a very acceptable judge. I am pleased with his nomination. I have been associated with him in cases and have found him to be a man of learning and ability.

He Will Be Impartial.

D. E. Corbett—What do I think of the nomination of Fallass for judge? Well, I think it was a singular nomination for a modern convention to make. When a modern convention is about to nominate a candidate, the inquiry is what particular class has he a crush on? Is it the working men? Is it the saloon element? or some other special class? But it can't be said that Fallass owns any particular class, or that any particular class owns him. He has opinions of his own, and he will stand by those opinions regardless of all classes. He knows nothing about the saying of Talleyrand, that language is the means by which we conceal our thoughts. His language is used for the purpose of expressing his thoughts, and he uses it for that purpose, whether he makes votes or loses them. If he is elected he will work hard to know the law, and then he will deal it out to all applicants without regard to classes or conditions. We hear considerable this spring about non-partisan judges. In Fallass we would have non-partisanship in its practical form.

He Ought to Win.

Dwight Goss—I think Mr. Fallass will make an ideal judge. He is one of the best legal counselors in the city, and his law practice has been of a kind which aims to keep clients out of litigation. For that reason he has not been seen in the court rooms as much as many lawyers with less practice. Any attorney associated with Mr. Fallass realizes his rare gift of legal acumen and intuitive sense of equity. If he is elected his administration will not be conducted on the patient medicine plan of advertising. The superior court will not be run regardless of expense. When he sentences a prisoner he will not make a political stump speech to "the voters." He will be a judge and not a political demagogue. He may not be a success as a newspaper paragrapher of personal venom, but he will command the respect and confidence of all law-abiding citizens. I am confident he will be elected, and that Grand Rapids will welcome the change. A band wagon will not be necessary to herald his good deeds.

Fred A. Maynard—Mr. Fallass is well qualified for the position of mature lawyer and large experience—well educated and thoroughly honest. His judicial work would be characterized by good sense and judgment, the result of reason and a fearless determination to do his duty without fear or favor.

John S. McDonald—Henry R. Fallass will make an excellent judge; his splendid character, his ripe experience and his rich, keen intellect are qualifications that eminently fit him for that position.

Reuben E. Hatch—Mr. Fallass is well known as a good lawyer and I believe, if elected, he will make a good judge.

A. Wolcott—It is a good nomination. H. R. Fallass is a lawyer of recognized ability, a man whom the people trust. He has, in large degree, the qualifications necessary for a judicial position.

TRADE FROM A DISTANCE.

Dr. S. Clay Todd received an order for medicine yesterday, in a registered letter, from the Netherlands, Europe (near Amsterdam), with a mint bill (tender note) of ten dollars enclosed. It was a bill of the issue of 1888, new form, and it was very gratifying to us to cast once more a glance on the old country money, were it no more than just a sly glimpse and the privilege of just feeling it. It proves also that the fame of Dr. S. Clay Todd has gone to the far shores of the Atlantic ocean, and that money is sent from 4,000 miles away for his "wonderful remedies" and advice.
